Some of the sidewalks in town are getting kind of bad in spots. . . . Have heard reports this week of the Government coming down with the National guard and starts breaking up some of the gambling devices that are making their appearance again, there'll be a lot of walling in the county then. . . . Certain die-hards never know when they are licked. . . .

Some people in Hancock County have to have the law translated through actual force. . . . When the Government comes marching down with the National guard and starts breaking up some of the gambling devices that are making their appearance again, there'll be a lot of walling in the county then. . . . Certain die-hards never know when they are licked. . . .

The ECHO staff wishes to extend congratulations to the graduates of our local schools and to those who are receiving their degrees from the various colleges. . . . May your futures be paved with success. . . .

Have you sent your donation to the Memorial Library fund yet? Time is getting short. . . . Your donation, regardless of size, will help. . . .

On May 19 in the SJA auditorium the annual installation of Sodality officers was held. . . .

After all reports had been made the installation began. The potential officers were asked to stand and make promises necessary to the reception of the office. Patsy Bailly then called her successor, Mary Rose LaBruzzi, to the stage and gave her a mallet, the symbol of her new office, and the medal of Our Lady. With this Patsy reminded Mary Rose of her duties and responsibilities, which she promised to fulfill to the best of her ability. . . .

The past prefect retired. The Vice-Prefect, Karen Kergosien, turned over her office to Ann Hubbard, along with the symbol of her office, the Sodality Rule Book and the medal of Our Lady. ### TAKE PICTURES OF NEW BRIDGE

Last Friday, Ben Hille took Elliott Hebert, Philip Guarisco of the Dixie Roto Magazine of the Times Playhouse, Commissioners Cyril Glover and Sylvan Ladner, O. W. Delph, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and Charles S. Hill, Consulting Engineer of Hazlett and Erdal, on his boat, the "Irene H." to take pictures of the new bridge, which are to be released around the time of the opening. . . .

They took pictures of a slab being prefabricated on the yards of Merritt-Chapman and Scott—came lifting and placing slab on a steel barge, then barge being towed over to bridge; floating barge in place and placing slab in place. . . .

Theatre To Hold Tryouts For Play

Try-outs for the third play of the 1953 season will be held at the Little Theatre on Boardman Avenue, 5 p. m. Sunday, June 1. The public is invited to attend. Anyone interested in Little Theatre work may read for a part. . . .

The next production, "The Man," by Mel Dinelli, is a thrilling suspenseful drama that is spinning from start to finish. Casting requires a young boy (12-16), a young girl (16-20), four men of any age group, and a woman in late thirties or early forties. . . .

Lead roles are excellent requiring some experience. The other parts are small, important and interesting. Lack of experience need not keep anyone from the cast. . . .

"On Borrowed Time" has been having regular rehearsals and is rapidly developing into a fine play. As the play spans an age group from eight to 80, it is recommended for all to enjoy. . . .

It is the unanimous opinion of the Director and the working cast that they have a bright, new star in their midst. Little Jimmy Larroth has been setting a terrific pace for one and all at rehearsals. Director Marie Louise Blair, said that he is not only line perfect in his own part but can prompt other parts in the cast. . . .

Mark the dates, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 11, 12, 13. The public is invited to attend, tickets may be purchased at the Little Theatre on Boardman Avenue nights of production, or a membership may be purchased for $5.00. . . .

All too often, the name and the memory of those who have meant a great deal in the growth of a city become only letters on a stone in the cemetery remembered as long as their children and their contemporaries survive, but necessarily forgotten in the inevitable march of time. But, a library is a living memorial. As each generation of children uses the facilities and reads the names of those who made these facilities possible, loving gratitude will bring gas in tollchen Convictat bring again to life the memory of those who have gone. . . .

Below is printed a form on which you can make your gift to the County-City Memorial Library. ## McDonald - O'Kelley Wedding Held Miss Helen Frances O'Kelley, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. F. O'Kelley of Marlin, Texas, became the bride Saturday, May 23, of Fred Stephenson McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McDonald Sr. of Bay St. Louis.

The wedding, which was held at 7:00 p. m. at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. W. Clark Hughes of Shreveport, La., was solemnized by the bride's father who served as pastor of the Presbyterian church in Minden, La., for 23 years.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her brother, Keith O'Kelley, wore a waltz length gown of white embroidered organdy over taffeta with a wide scalloped decollete neckline and yoke of illusion. Short cap sleeves were bordered with folds of organdy and tiny covered buttons extended down the back of the bodice. The full gathered skirt had three deep tiers of scalloped, embroidered organdy. Embroidered organdy mitts covered her arms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley. She wore a veil of imported silk illusion, which fell about her shoulders from a peaked illusion calot.

Mrs. McKibben Lane Jr., sister of the bride of Greensboro, N. C., who was matron of honor, wore a waltz length gown of yellow organdy over taffeta. A triangular stole of matching organdy formed a wide berth, the ends of which were caught under a velvet belt in front. She wore matching slippers and carried a nosegay of yellow roses and blue delphinium.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the Ozarks. For traveling the bride wore a blue silk suit with blue and white accessories. Upon their return, the couple will be at home in Baytown, Texas, where the bridegroom has a position with the Humble Oil Company.

PMA NEWS

"Dwight Eisenhower did not become President and I did not become Secretary of Agriculture to permit an agricultural depression," Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson recently told the National Conference of Christians and Jews in New York City. He pledged to the farm people of this country that he would do all in his power to develop and maintain a sound economy for agriculture.

Reviewing some fundamentals of our agricultural policy on the maintenance of a sound farm economy, Secretary Benson said, "We believe that the development of modern agriculture has placed the family in a vulnerable economic position because farm prices and income rise and fall faster than farm costs and other prices in the national economy. Therefore, programs of price support and storage are needed to help assure stability of farm income and prices in the interest of all our people. We believe, however, that price support not only must provide basic stability for agriculture; they should also contain incentives for progress by encouraging economic production, and by avoiding excessive surpluses and subsidies."

He emphasized that government programs should be used to help achieve broad aims but that we must recognize that objectives cannot be won by government programs alone. The Secretary also warned against the damage of excessive governmental adventures in business, too great centralization of government power, and the undue dependence on public assistance. "The supreme test of any government policy, in agriculture or outside of it," he said, "should be: How will it affect the character, morale, and well being of our people."

The Secretary declared, "Certainly we must start from where we are today and build for a better tomorrow. We must not discard present farm progress until we have developed better ones. But better ones we must develop, if agriculture is to progress and prosper."

Making Mississippi's Telephones More Valuable!

As new customers receive their telephones your telephone becomes more and more valuable — because you can call more people and more people can call you.

Adding to our plant in Mississippi to serve more customers will be a full time job for many Southern Bell workers throughout 1953. This year alone, material and labor for new construction in the State will cost approximately 12 1/2 million dollars.

In the last 7 years we've spent over 72 million dollars to improve service and to increase the number of telephones in Mississippi from 115,876 on January 1, 1946 to today's total of nearly a quarter of a million telephones.

The 14 million dollars a year paid to 4,439 telephone employees in Mississippi is spent mostly at home, adds to the State's prosperity.
